The Children's Residential Program

Children's Residential Program

Long recognized as an expert in the field of adult residential services and a leader and model provider of educational programs, UCP Suffolk is proud to offer a comprehensive Children's Residential Program for youngsters five through 21 years of age. This multi-faceted program addresses the daytime schooling and round the clock residential needs of children who have a wide range of developmental disabilities.

The Children's Residential Program (CRP) is innovative in that it incorporates exemplary residential and educational services to nurture the growth and development of each child. The children live in an accessible and comfortable home supported by an interdisciplinary team that monitors the needs, strengths and progress of each child. The skills learned at school and in the home are reinforced and practiced in both settings. Our homes are located in neighborhoods close to our school and fully accessible health center.
